THE NORTH SEA

THE STÚLKA

BORS!

JA.

THE CELIA.

GET THEM INTO POSITION. THEY SUPPORT US.

THEY CLAIM IT'S THEIR TURN, THEIR KILL.

GOATFUCKERS. GIVE IT HERE.

KRIS! I JUST CALLED YOU A GOATFUCKER TO YOUNG KARI, HERE.

BORS--

THIS ONE IS OURS. YOU SUPPORT US.

YES, IT IS THE STULKA'S TURN, BUT THE CELIA HAS NOT HAD A KILL IN THREE WEEKS.

DID OUR ANCESTORS WHINE ABOUT SUCH THINGS? IF YOU WANT A WHALE, KRIS, GO FUCKING KILL ONE.

BUT WAIT YOUR TURN.

MY SPEAR.

Minke whales number close to a half million in the North Atlantic.

Classified as "least concern" in the conservationist sense, their numbers have only grown post-Crash.

In 1986, the International Whaling Commission implemented a moratorium on all whaling. Several North Sea nations, each with historical claims to whaling tradition, opposed the IWC and continued in defiance.

Ninth Wave was formed, in large part, to combat this illegal whaling.
