

The moon rises over the city of Blüdhaven.

First, it shines down on the Tail's End, where families eat fragrant dinners on their patios with the grandparents who first stepped foot on this shore.

Then its silver light illuminates the Meadowdale Mall, forcing customers to hide their black-market purchases in blue-gray shadows.

In the Brazilian neighborhood of Ports Park, the moon dances off metal sequins as it moves westward.

On the Boardwalk, the moon competes for tourists' attention with neon signs and barkers.

The moon teases me. Beckons me to follow it off to some new place, some new performance like I did when I was a kid. When I was one of the Flying Graysons.

But tonight I'm going to resist its flirtations.

In Blüdhaven, I've found a place that keeps me grounded.

Well... figuratively speaking anyway.

Here I have a home.
A life. A job. Friends...

THE MARCUS CASINO.

WHAT THE HELL KIND OF CRIME BOSS DO YOU THINK YOU ARE?

YOU SOLD US THESE HIGH-TECH WEAPONS FROM THE SECOND HAND, BUT NOW LOOK AT 'EM!

THEY'RE FALLING APART LIKE DOLLAR STORE CRAP!

TO MAKE IT WORSE, EVERY LOWLIFE FROM GOTHAM TO STAR CITY IS TAKING THE OPPORTUNITY TO HIT US BACK AFTER YOU TRIED TO BLOW 'EM ALL UP!

WE NEED LEADERSHIP IN THIS TOWN, AND ALL WE'VE GOTTEN FROM THE ENIGMATIC MR. ROLAND DESMOND IS EMPTY PROMISES.

YOUR ARGUMENT'S BEEN HEARD, MS. MARREL. I ADMIT THERE'VE BEEN SOME... BUMPS.

BUT GIMME SOME TIME, AND I'LL MAKE IT RIGHT.

YEAH, THAT'S NOT GOOD ENOUGH.

ORCA?

WHEN I CAME BACK TO THIS CITY, I PROMISED I'D KICK OUT THE OUTSIDERS WHO WERE TAKIN' ADVANTAGE OF IT.

IT WAS WORKIN' JUST FINE, UNTIL NIGHTWING SHOWED UP AND PUSHED US DOWN.

BUT SOMETIMES THE BEST THING FOR YA IS GETTIN' A LI'L HURT.

YOU FALL DOWN, YOU FIND OUT WHERE YOU'RE WEAK.

MON DIEU.

YOU STICK THIS OUT, I'LL MAKE THIS RIGHT. BLOCKBUSTER WILL MAKE BLÜDHAVEN STRONG.
