

But, hold on: the FLF didn't suddenly stop smuggling weapons. I may not be a Special Agent, but I've seen plenty of gun stashes in the past eleven years.

We think they're teaming up with drug runners. Maybe even the same runs, just with an extra cargo.

You found drugs on Kuang's body, right?

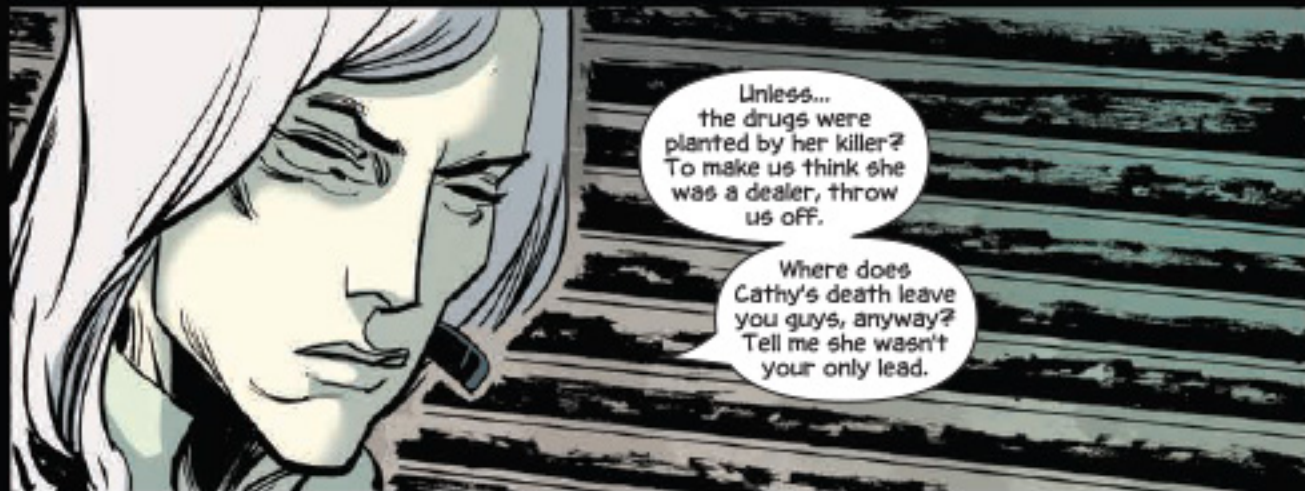

Yeah, a big brick of smack. Maybe she was into it, after all?

But everyone tells us how much Ms Kuang hated drugs. And we found no evidence of dealings on her phone.

I don't buy it. Sounds to me like people are just trying to protect her reputation.

Unless... the drugs were planted by her killer? To make us think she was a dealer, throw us off.

Where does Cathy's death leave you guys, anyway? Tell me she wasn't your only lead.

Not at all. This video shows Kuang leaving an FLF meeting last month, and we're working on identifying the people in it.

The hell's going on with their faces?

Dazzle make-up. It baffles facial recognition algorithms by altering the shapes a computer expects to see. That's why it's taking so long, we've got to ID them by sight.

We do expect to find Felix Jurado in there somewhere, though. He's another reason your case came to our notice.

That would surprise me. The only cause Mr Jurado seems to care about is himself.

We'll find out soon enough. There's a raid taking place tomorrow morning.

Your Lieutenant's already cleared you to tag along, if you want.

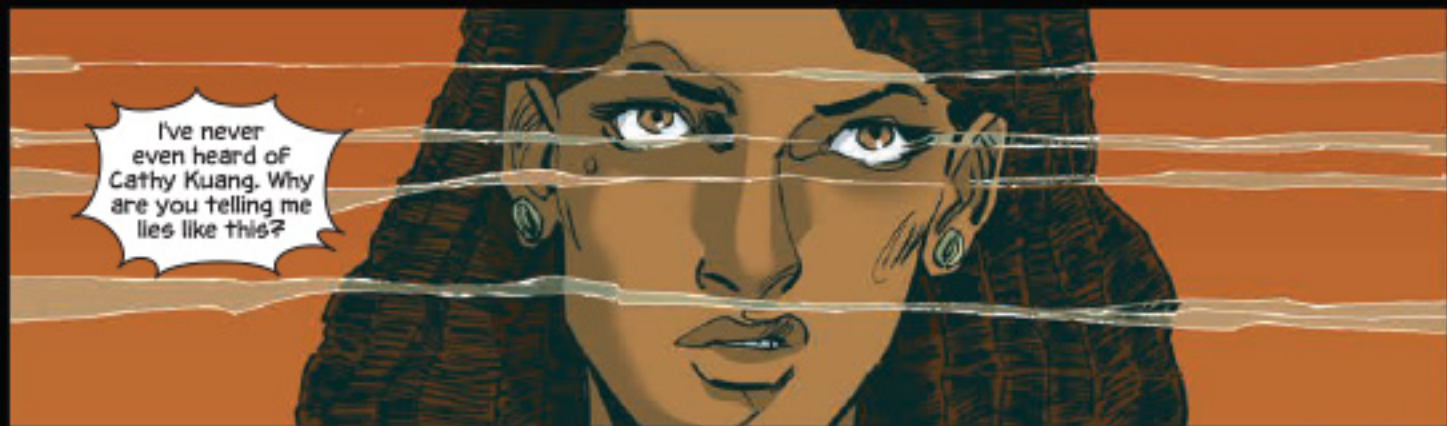

I would be very interested in that. Sergeant?

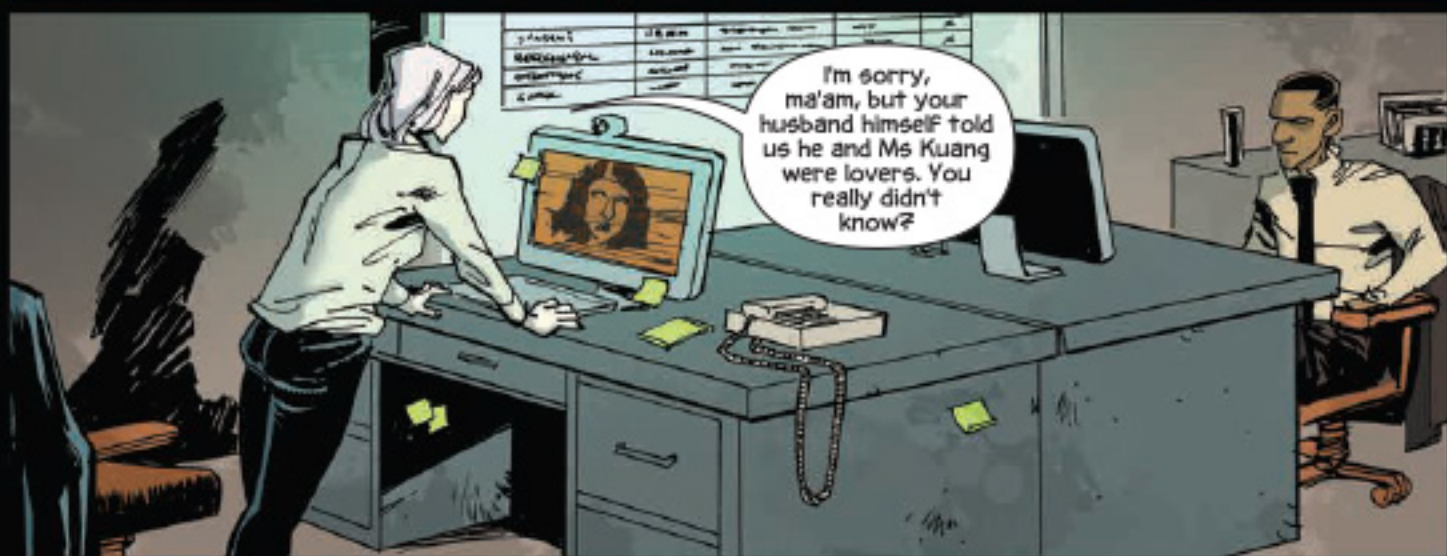

Sure, why not? Just give us first swing at that other woman in the video.

And speaking of other women...

I've never even heard of Cathy Kuang. Why are you telling me lies like this?

I'm sorry, ma'am, but your husband himself told us he and Ms Kuang were lovers. You really didn't know?

What I know, Detective, is my Stuart. He's a good, loyal husband, providing for our children. He sends money home every month.

Now please leave us alone to get on with our lives.

Denial: it ain't just a river in Egypt.

He has been working away from home for a long time.

Yeah, but with five rugrats, and a wife who thinks he walks on water, who'd blame him?

Go home, get some sleep. I don't want to miss that FLF raid in the morning.
