

Once Eugene "Flash" Thompson got his chance to be a hero, he refused to give it up. When he lost both his legs serving his country, Flash formed a symbiotic bond with an alien parasite. It functioned as a body-morphing suit that enabled him to continue serving others. Then, when helping on one planet wasn't enough, he enlisted in the Guardians of the Galaxy. And after his symbiote, a member of the Klyntar species, was purified on its home planet, Flash expanded his range once again. He's answered the Klyntar call to serve as an Agent of the Cosmos.

Now Flash is swashbuckling his way across the universe as...

VENOM

SPACE KNIGHT

Flash Thompson, made an Agent of the Cosmos through his newly cleansed Klyntar symbiote, can hear the prayers of the desperate and the downtrodden. Flash is gung ho to help those in need, and his good works have even inspired his fatalistic robot pal 803, who made him a pair of prosthetic legs. But that same do-gooding has made him an enemy of the megalomaniacal Mercurio, who has sent the mercenary Pik Rollo to kill our hero. But don't worry, Flash has plenty of time to figure out solutions since the symbiote's flying the ship. Wait--what???
