WAIT - WAIT -- !
This isn't how I imagined my life would be. Ever.
But you don't always have a choice, do you?
And let's face it... I've become pretty good at this.
WHO THE FU--
Killing people.
People who deserve it.

And yeah, you can sit there and ask what gives me the right to make that judgment...
But that's just your defense.
Your alibi for not doing anything.
Because the world is [redacted] right now, and we all know it.
Just look at the news for five [redacted] minutes and it's obvious.
Big business controls your government...
[redacted] go on shooting rampages almost daily...

Terrorists blow up airports and train stations...
Cops kill innocent black kids and get away with it...
--
Psychopaths run for President...
Oh, and the Middle East is one nuke away from turning us all into dust...
And that's just the tip of the iceberg.
...NNHHH... NN...

The fact is, there's no justice.
Bad people get away with everything...
MOTHER --
And greed is destroying the entire [redacted] planet.
-- [redacted]!
We all know this is true...
UFF -- !
But we refuse to really let ourselves believe it.
We cling to fantasy... To hope...
GHH -- !

We say [redacted] like "The arc of time is long, but it bends towards justice" when it so clearly does not.
It bends towards fascism and mass graves.
YOU [redacted]!
But we sit at our screens and fill our heads with noise and scream at each other...
As if that's going to change anything.
I get it.
I used to be like that, too.
[redacted]--!
But now my life is different. Obviously.
