

This is known to every sailor,
who has worked upon a boat.
The ships of Captain Ahax
Do not long remain afloat.
His destination matters not--
Who cares what it may be?
His ship is always headed
For the bottom of the sea.
The captain's skill is not to blame;
The problem is his crew.
Too often, it includes a man
Known far and wide as Groo.
Let Groo upon your vessel
And you welcome on a jinx.
Just watch the craft departing
And then watch it as it sinks.
So if you be a sailing man
Fear not the pirate's sword--
Just fear what tends to happen
With an idiot aboard.

FAR AWAY FROM THE MINSTREL, GROO HAS JUST SUCCESSFULLY VANQUISHED ANOTHER ENTIRE ARMY...

THERE IS, AS USUAL,
A SLIGHT PROBLEM...

WHAT DO YOU MEAN I AM NOT TO BE REWARDED?

I AM VICTORIOUS IN THE FRAY! I HAVE BEATEN BACK A VERY LARGE HORD OF ATTACKING SOLDIERS!

WHY IS THAT NOT A GOOD THING?

BECAUSE THEY ARE THE MEN WE HIRED TO PROTECT US FROM YOU?

I SIGNED ON TO BATTLE GROO!

WHY DO I KEEP HAVING THESE URGES TO GO AWAY WITH MYSELF?

SO WE MADE ONE SLIGHT MISTAKE...
