

An aerial view of Corto Maltese, a coastal city built on a cliffside overlooking the sea. The architecture is a mix of traditional and modern styles. A large bridge spans the water, and several sailboats are visible. The sky is filled with seagulls.

CORTO MALTESE IS A SMALL COUNTRY FAR AWAY FROM CENTRAL CITY...FOR YEARS IT WAS ENTRENCHED IN A CIVIL WAR THAT RESULTED IN ITS WEALTH AND TREASURES STOLEN OR HIDDEN.

A group of people are gathered in front of a large, ornate building with a glass dome. Some are looking at their phones, while others are talking. The scene is busy and suggests a popular tourist destination.

AFTER THE WAR WAS OVER, MOST OF THE ITEMS WERE RECOVERED AND A MUSEUM WAS BUILT TO HOLD THEM.

A STATUE OF MERCURY MADE FROM GOLD AND JEWELS IS ITS MOST PRIZED PIECE OF HISTORY.

The interior of the museum is a grand, vaulted hall with high ceilings and large windows. People are seen walking through the hall, some looking at displays. A police officer in a blue uniform is visible in the foreground on the left. The atmosphere is one of a well-secured and popular museum.

BECAUSE OF THE VIOLENT HISTORY OF CORTO MALTESE AND THE PAST THEFTS, THE MUSEUM HAS BECOME ONE OF THE MOST SECURE IN THE WORLD.

THEY'RE NO MATCH FOR THE ROGUES.

GOLDEN GLOVE, MY MAN, YOU'VE GOT TO FALL HERE FOR THE HAPPY THAT HER POWER IS NO ONE CAN TOUCH HER
