

What do you see in him, Zhen? I don't get it.

Well...

It's like every guy or girl I was ever in a "serious" relationship with, they were just trying to work something out for themselves on me.

It wasn't about me inside, you know? They looked at me and saw some part of themselves they were having an issue with.

Or, and this might have been the worst thing, they wanted to "help" me. While [redacted] me, of course. But. "Help."

When Chenglei looks at me, he just sees me.

And when I look at him, I can see me too.

I don't know. He's as honest as his drawings. He just falls into everything.

So, you think it has a future? What are you going to do?

Keep falling?