Zimu...
Can we talk?

...just let me
finish parceling out
the fish for these boys. Their families are waiting.

Actually,
my love...

Aya? Of course...

...their families will have to wait a spell longer.

Zimu...?

At the beginning of time,
God sent a group of angels to Earth to guard over humanity. They were the Fallen Angels. The Watchers.

Not long after their arrival, the Watchers proved themselves to be woefully unprepared for their mission.

Instead of monitoring mankind, they intervened in their evolution, instructing them on matters humans were not yet meant to know.

Soon after, the Watchers began to mate with human beings.

The blasphemous union of angels and humans brought forth a new race: the Nephilim.

Aya, where are you taking me?

Needless to say, God was far from pleased.

You must see it yourself, my love.

It's just a little bit further...

...right there.

First, He sent His four Archangels to punish the Watchers and destroy their children.

Then, He followed the massacre with a great flood to cleanse the Earth of their trace.

By the time the culling was over, both the Nephilim and humanity itself were almost completely obliterated.

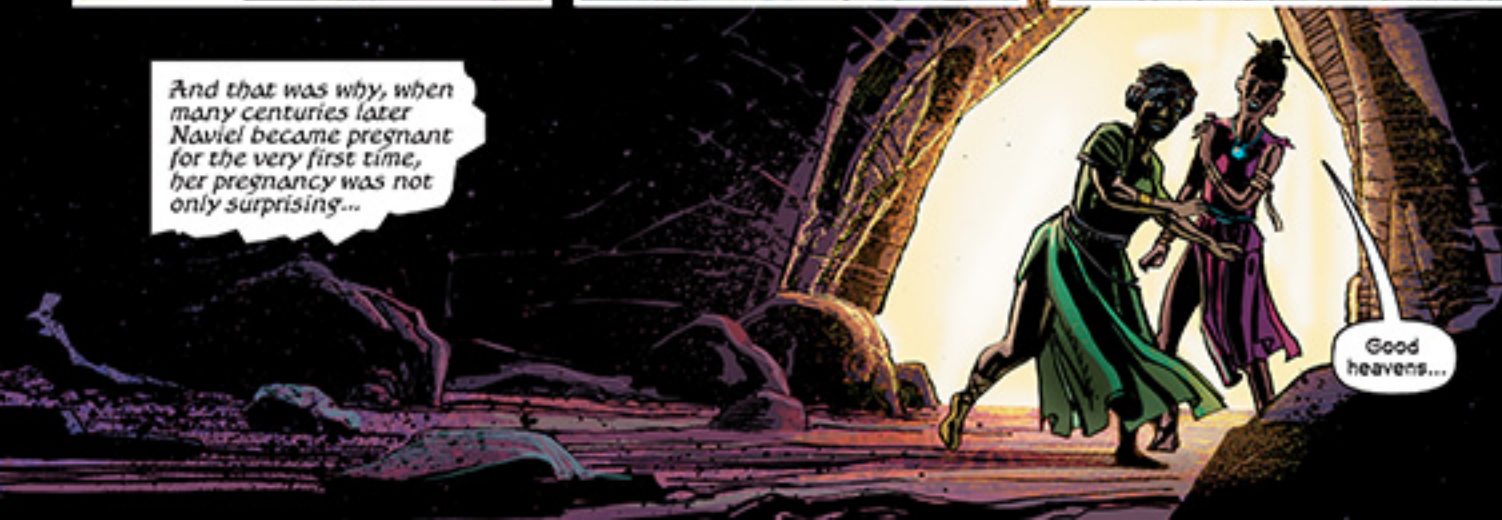

A cave...?

But that was not all.

From that moment on, He decreed that Angels would never be able to mate with human beings, ever again.

And that was why, when many centuries later Naviel became pregnant for the very first time, her pregnancy was not only surprising...

Good heavens...
